

Consul Arman R. Talbo (front row, 2nd from right) and Cultural Officer Olive Magpile (front row, left) join this year's winner of the "Battle of the Barrios XVIII" held at Rutgers University in New Brunswick, N.J. on March 30, 2019. (Photo by NYPCG)

Fil-Am college students from 16 universities in New York and New Jersey participated in a skit competition at the "Battle of the Barrios XVIII" held at Rutgers University in New Brunswick, N.J. on March 30, 2019.

Battle of the Barrios is an intercollegiate competition where schools from all over the Filipino Intercollegiate Networking Dialogue District III (FIND D-III) come together and have a friendly competition of creativity and talent in a 10-minute skit that highlights originality, humor, modern and cultural dancing.

Each team shows off its own character and personality by performing stories and dances related to their Fil-Am identity or to socially relevant issues.

The annual event is organized by the Rutgers Association of Philippine Students (RAPS) and it is one of the most anticipated events by the Fil-Am college community in New Jersey and New York.

About 400 students and their parents attended the event.

'Battle of the Barrios' held in New Jersey

Wednesday, 10 April 2019 17:10

2019/04/10 17:10:00 'Battle of the Barrios' held in New Jersey

Participants Americans created the "Battle of the Barrios" to address social issues and their identity