Even if the Democratic Party was able to win majority and, therefore, control of the U.S. House of Representatives and the Republican Party retained control of the Senate, we feel that the ultimate winner in last Tuesday's U.S. elections was democracy.

Why democracy?

The recent elections confirmed the following:

1) The truth to the democratic dictum that “the voice of the people is the supreme law.”

2) It gave a chance to the American people to rebuke what they saw as divisive, tough, sweeping generalizations that promote baseless fear and anti-immigrants stances of their President.

3) The voters revived the Founding Fathers’ democratic concept of checks and balances between the major institutions of government by electing majority of representatives from the Democratic Party.

4) “Women votes matter. Women overwhelmingly voted Democratic, giving them a 20 percent margin; men favored Republicans by just three points. Married women went for Democrats (55 to 43 percent) as did female independents (57 to 39 percent), white women (50 to 48 percent) and white college-educated women (60 to 38 percent).”

5) Democracy in America is healthy as ever.
