McLEAN, Virginia — A 50-year-old Fil-Am grandmother threw her 2 1/2 years old granddaughter several stories to her death from a walkway at a shopping mall after a family outing, police said on Tuesday.

Carmela Dela Rosa, of Ellenwood Drive in Fairfax, was arrested and charged on Tuesday with murder, said prosecutor Ian Rodway, the chief deputy Commonwealth's attorney.

She is currently being held without bond at the Fairfax County Adult Detention Center.

The child, Angelyn Ogdock, died in a hospital after plunging about 50 feet to the pavement on Monday night at around 7:30 p.m.

She fell from a walkway linking the mall's third floor to the parking garage's sixth floor at Tysons Corner Center in Fairfax, a Washington suburb in Virginia.
