Seven New Jersey hospitals are among the 115 nationwide that have been dubbed “Top Hospitals” by a non-profit dedicated to pushing for safer and better hospitals.

The lists were announced as the highest-performing institutions in the Leapfrog Hospital Survey.

Leapfrog was formed to push for improvements in health care, and to share performance records with employers and insurers.

Unlike other hospital rating systems, it does not take into account patient satisfaction or professional reputation.

Nor does it focus on the strength of various specialities treated there.

Instead, it focuses on the day-to-day regimens that produce safe, effective care.

Hospitals were chosen in four different categories: general hospitals, teaching hospitals, children's hospitals, and rural hospitals.

Four N.J. hospitals made the list of "Top General Hospitals": Holy Name Medical Center in Teaneck, Inspira Medical Center in Woodbury, Kennedy University Hospital in Stratford, and Shore Medical Center in Somers Point.
